In the light of the great question being agitated at the present, that of conservation, we desire to call attention to the most valuable asset of the State or Nation, that of citizenship. Every child born into the world has a right to demand of the State or Nation a square deal and an opportunity to acquire a proper conception of life. No place is so adequate and conducive to such results as home life, and may I say that of farm life. It has long been a recognized fact that the open field and country is the source of our stalwart citizenship. Hence the effort on the part of Tennessee Children's Home Society to place children, more especially the boys, in well regulated country homes. If you are a farmer, could you do a better thing than take a little homeless boy and give him the proper home training, and acquaint him with the farm industry, and with this give him an education, and at the same time brighten and make your home more cheerful? This Society has in its Receiving Home between thirty and forty children, most of whom are boys, ranging in age from tiny infants up to seven years. These are exceedingly bright and well favored children, with plenty of energy to make fine men. We consider that no greater work than this can be done toward the conservation of the greatest asset of our State and Nation, that of citizenship. If you would like to take one of these little ones in your home for a three months trial, write B. G. Regan, 213, 8th. Ave. N., Nashville, Tenn.

Call at my home, Granville, Tenn., and buy one extra Jersey cow, four years old and giving milk. —B. L. Simmons.

The ChurnMother Wants

The above illustration shows the difference between the Reliable Churn and the old stick and dasher churn. It is built on the same principle as the old churn, but all of the hard labor is eliminated. Churning with the Reliable is made easy and a pleasure, and is accomplished in much shorter time.

These churns can be seen at Brooks Bros. store, Gainesboro, and the women are cordially invited to call and see them. This churn must be seen to be appreciated. Don't fail to see it.
